Castro Says His Country Not Involved

By DANIEL HARKER

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro denied Friday night his government was involved in the Panama Canal violence but said Cuba was willing to suffer sacrifices in order to give economic aid to Panama.

"When the things happened in Panama, the imperialists accused the Castroites and Communists," Castro said in a radio broadcast. "Cuba's interests coincide with the demands of the Panamanians, but we had nothing to do with that."

Actually, he said, Cuba was "careful to give the United States no reason to practice subterfuge against that movement."

In his speech, Castro reported to the Cubans on his trip to Moscow during which he signed a six-year, $3.2-billion contract to sell sugar to the Russians. Castro returned from Moscow Thursday.

Castro described the contract as an improvement over Cuba's former sugar agreements with the United States, and added:

"The tragedy of Latin America is that today products are worth half what was received 10 years ago, and with that half they must buy products from the United States priced at double that of 10 years ago."

Under the Soviet contract, Cuba will receive 6 cents a pound in Russian merchandise. The current world market price is about 10 cents.

Castro said Soviet Premier Khrushchev "insisted on paying us more than 6 cents, but we told him that was not just."

"Khrushchev told me he did not want to take advantage of paying us one price now and later another lower one according to changes in the market," Castro said.

Castro offered to lead Latin American countries in giving economic aid to Panama, which he described as "a nation without economic resources confronting a country—the United States—with all the resources."

"Cuba is ready to enlarge any joint Latin American fund to help Panama," he added. "Cuba also is ready to help Panama by herself, even if it implies sacrifice."

No Poll Tax Revenue Loss This Year

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Any tax loss Arkansas suffers due to the outlawing of the poll tax will not be felt until next year.

Payment of the current $1 per person poll tax closed last Oct. 1. The deadline for paying this year's tax would have been next Oct. 1.

Arkansas collected poll tax from 633,658 persons last year, with the revenue going to the public school fund.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus is expected to call a special legislative session to set up a voter registration system because Arkansas traditionally has used the poll tax for qualification and registration of voters.

The same special session may be asked to enact some kind of per capita tax to replace the revenue which will be lost because of ratification of Amendment 24 to the U. S. Constitution. The amount has run more than $500,000 a year for over a decade.

Public school forces are expected to push hard for replacement of the tax.

It is possible that the legislature will attempt to retain the poll tax for use in state elections by requiring separate ballots for federal and state offices at each election.

Weather

Clear and partly cloudy a little colder today and tonight.

Discuss Future Rights Areas

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Advisory Committee to the U. S. Civil Rights Commission met behind closed doors today with two commission attorneys from Washington, discussing possible future civil rights areas for investigation.

James E. Youngdahl of Little Rock, chairman of the Arkansas committee, said the group would consider a study made on progress in desegregating public facilities in the state.

The committee will hold an open meeting Saturday to hear any complaints about alleged violations of civil rights, particularly in voting.

Rain Moves Across Part of Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain moved into Arkansas today, part of North Arkansas was put under a tornado alert, and a cold wave was expected tonight.

The tornado alert affected Marion, Searcy, Van Buren, Stone, Izard, Baxter, Fulton and the western parts of Randolph and Sharp counties.

The forecast called for a few severe thunderstorms with one or two tornadoes, damaging winds and large hail.

Rain clouds moved toward the east, northeast across North Arkansas and much of the rest of the state got some rain.

The moisture climaxed several days of unseasonably high temperatures that approached records for this time of year.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock said temperatures would drop from balmy 60s and 70s this afternoon to lows around the freezing point tonight.

Cloudy and cold weather was expected Saturday, with the rain ending tonight.

Highs Thursday were generally in the 60s, but Fort Smith recorded a 72. Overnight lows were mostly in the 50s and 60s, but Fort Smith recorded a 46.

Ledbetter to File in Pulaski

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Cal Ledbetter Jr. of Little Rock said he would file today as a candidate for Pulaski County state senator.

He will oppose Sen. Dan Sprick, who is seeking re-election.

Ledbetter is chairman of the Political Science Department at Little Rock University.

Quarantine State Farm Products

ATLANTA (AP)—A U. S. Department of Agriculture proposal to quarantine Virginia and Arkansas and regulate movement into other states of a variety of farm products because of the white-fringed beetle is opposed by Virginia.

The beetle, discovered in Florida in 1935, has caused extensive damage to corn, cotton, peanuts and other crops.

The federal government has placed areas in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina and Tennessee under quarantine.

A representative of the Virginia Department of Agriculture, Maurice B. Rowe, said measures have been taken to control the beetle which appeared in the Norfolk and Virginia beach area last year.

The Arkansas State Plant Board advised Thursday's hearing conducted by the Plant Control Division of the Agriculture Department that it would not actively oppose the proposed quarantine.

The hearing was described as exploratory.

Melvin C. Tucker, head of the Arkansas Plant Pathology and Entomology Division, wrote that control measures already have been taken to eradicate the beetle in that state.

A spokesman for the Agriculture Department said most of the infected croplands of the Southwest have been treated with modern pesticides and that there is not much crop damage from the beetles.

Still Finishes School

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A burglary charge isn't stopping Robert W. Schaffer, 22, from finishing his semester at college.

Sheriff Dave Middleman arranged with Carroll College officials to give Schaffer the semester examinations in a private office at the county jail.

The student is charged with burglarizing a drug store.

By MARY ANITA LASETER

The only manufacturer of elephant canes in the entire United States is the Split Hickory Co., Inc., of Hope.

From this plant, circuses throughout our country buy elephant canes, and, according to general manager Brack Schenck, among the circuses supplied have been Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey; Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros.; Al G. Kelly & Miller Bros.; Al G. Barnes & Carson Bros.; Polack Bros. Shrine Circus; Gil Gray Shrine Circus; and James M. Cole All-Star Circus.

Did one of those names, in particular, sound familiar? Well, it should, as the Al G. Barnes & Carson Bros. Circus is making its headquarters in Hope for the first time this winter.

What is an elephant cane, you ask? No, it not used by either debonair or crippled pachyderms, but, rather, by their trainers. The canes are about one-fourth inch in diameter and 36 to 40 inches long. Since Split Hickory makes them, it doesn't take too much brain power to reason what kind of wood is used in their manufacture.

This local company also makes wild animal prods about 6 feet long with a metal hook on the end. They are longer because it is more important to keep a greater distance from wild cats of various types than from the bulky but peacefully intelligent elephant.

What is the first thing you remember about an elephant? We've been told always that the elephant never forgets. And, apparently, there is some truth in that statement. They particularly remember the items used for their training, and elephants dislike new or different items being introduced. For that reason the hickory canes finished in natural wood are made as consistently alike as possible.

Unlike the sale of stockman canes which range from 100 to 10,000 per order, there is no volume sale for elephant canes. Maybe a dozen are ordered at once, but old ones are used when at all possible. (I'm sure you haven't forgotten why.)

Located on Highway 67 West, Split Hickory employs 19. Judge Lyle Brown is president and George Robinson is secretary-treasurer. As we mentioned earlier, Brack Schenck is general manager.

A footnote in the sawdust from Jack Moore of the Barnes & Carson Circus:

The group at Hope Fair Park is just beginning to put a few of the horses "through their paces," but, in time, other animals will also receive training here. Some of the animals are now in Hawaii but will be brought to Hope in the late spring.

When the acts have been better organized, the public will be invited to view the activities at the local Livestock Show Coliseum. An announcement to that effect will be made at the proper time.

Whether the circus elephants in the United States are obeying their trainers in Hope, Hawaii, or Madison Square Garden, they are sure to be bowing and stepping to the guiding of canes from Hope's Split Hickory Co.,

The incident occurred Thursday night in the Proving Ground area north of Hope.

Thinks Ford's Plan Is Good

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today that Education Commissioner Arch Ford's new plan for improving high school opportunities in poor districts "sounds all right" to him.

Faubus discussed the plan privately with Faubus before announcing it Tuesday.

Ford said the plan was not being proposed by the Education Department but would be given to the new Advisory Committee on Elementary and Secondary Education for study.

The plan calls for closing small, inefficient high schools in a nearby district.

Interested in Halt to Use of Plutonium

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union has expressed interest in an East-West treaty to stop production of plutonium for nuclear weapons, authoritative Western sources said today.

A proposal to halt production of material for nuclear weapons was one of five arms control measures suggested by President Johnson in a message to the 17-nation disarmament conference Tuesday.

The conference seemed headed for a deadlock on other sections of Johnson's plan including agreement to stop the spread of nuclear weapons and to halt the production and development of nuclear delivery vehicles.

Western officials said the Soviet Union has given a clear indication it is anxious to convert some of the resources and manpower absorbed by its huge defense program to nonmilitary purposes.

Johnson's suggestion of a gradual shutdown of reactors producing plutonium and other fissionable materials for weapons use seemed to offer the Russians an opportunity to make the conversion without weakening their relative strength, the officials said.

Soviet disarmament negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin still has not given any formal comment on the Johnson plan.

British-Pole Agreement

LONDON (AP) — Britain and Poland have agreed to "work for progress towards general and complete disarmament," said a communique Thursday night on talks between British officials and Piotr Jaroszewicz, Poland's deputy prime minister.

Cholera Hits Saigon Area

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The U. S. government is shipping more than $5 million worth of vaccine and equipment into South Viet Nam to fight a rising cholera epidemic.

So far, 1,136 cases and 122 deaths have been reported in Saigon and six surrounding provinces. U. S. health officials said there probably would be 18,000 cases before the epidemic passed, with nearly 3,000 deaths.

No U. S. cases have been reported.

Tornado Hits Marmaduke And Rector

MARMADUKE, Ark. (AP) — A mid-afternoon tornado which hit the Marmaduke and Rector areas Friday, damaging a number of houses, barns and two house trailers, barely missed a school filled with 200 students.

The twister destroyed a house trailer at Marmaduke, injuring Mrs. Sharon Rippey, 18. The trailer was only a block from Marmaduke's consolidated school.

Mrs. Rippey, not seriously hurt, was treated for lacerations and bruises at a Paragould hospital.

After hitting the Rippey trailer and four homes in north Marmaduke, the tornado skipped six miles northeastward where it hit more homes and barns two miles south of Rector.

The tornado next touched down near Frisbee, Mo., which is about 10 miles north of Kennett, Mo. There were no injuries reported there.

In both Marmaduke and the Rector area power lines were blown down and roof damage was heavy.

Another tornado was spotted in the air west of Blytheville by a pilot from the Blytheville Air Force Base, but no one saw it touch ground.

The husband of the injured woman, Bobby Rippey, 22, said he was working on his car near the trailer when he saw a car wheel and tire "fly by 25 feet in the air."

"I turned around just in time to see the trailer blow away," Rippey said. The trailer flipped four times, then blew apart "as if someone had thrown a stick of dynamite into it." He found his wife under a pile of debris.

Mayor W. H. Ahlf of Rector said the twister "wasn't too bad as tornadoes go."

Many residents reported the tornado was unusually silent, not giving them much warning.

Mr. J. R. Holt of Marmaduke said his home was moved four feet off its foundation without injuring the Holts or their son. He said the house was suspended about eight feet off the ground for what seemed like "two or three minutes."

A neighbor across the street from the Holts, Mrs. Irvy McClure, 78, said she suffered a back injury when winds knocked her down in her kitchen.

Another Marmaduke resident, Herb Shelly, returned from a trip to Kennett, to find the roof still on top of his home, but upside down.

Rice Future Contacts Planned

NEW YORK (AP) — John J. Scanlan, president of the New York Mercantile Exchange, said today plans are being drafted to trade rice future contracts.

He said the exchange hopes to begin this trading by March 1, resuming an activity that was discontinued about 12 years ago when, he said, interest lagged.

Involved will be the buying and selling of contracts specifying the delivery of a certain quantity of rice at a specified price for delivery at a specified future date. The main object, as in other futures trading, is to help producers and users hedge against future price changes, Scanlan said.

At first, only contracts in polished rice—essentially an export commodity—will be traded. But rough rice may be added later, Scanlan said.

Meetings will be held with bankers, warehousemen, millers, producers and others in Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas this spring to explain the details of the trading, Scanlan said.

U.S. Will Not Change Policy In Far East

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is seeking to cushion the impact of the impending French recognition of Communist China with reassurances that it will not change U. S. policy in the Far East.

High diplomatic sources making this known today said Secretary of State Dean Rusk in private talks with Japanese and South Korean leaders over the next five days will stress American intentions to hold the line in its policy toward Peking.

Rusk is due to make an important policy speech in Tokyo next Tuesday in which he will restate the American policy of supporting the independence of young postwar countries faced with Communist subversion and infiltration.

He was also expected to reaffirm U. S. intentions of honoring its treaty commitments to Nationalist China.

The hope in Washington is that the expected French action will not touch off a wave of recognition by other countries and upset the balance of power in the United Nations. The United Nations has refused thus far to oust Nationalist China in order to seat Communist China.

The State Department has made clear it regards the French recognition move as a mistake and simply a reward to Chinese Communist belligerence and aggression.

There is considerable hope here that the French-speaking African nations will not follow the lead of Paris in extending recognition to Peking.

This hope has been fortified by reports that the takeover of Zanzibar's month-old government by a Peking-leaning leftist group has upset other African nations.

Informants said there are indications that most of the 12 French-speaking African countries in the Afro-Malagasy union will refrain from following Paris. If they swing in the other direction, however, their U. N. votes could make a decisive change in favor of Peking.

There are indications here that French President Charles de Gaulle has advised the African states he does not expect them to follow France's example.

According to this information, De Gaulle has indicated France is a strong enough power to deal with the Chinese Communists, but the former French colonies are not.

Nationalist China has been advised by the United States to sit tight and not break diplomatic relations with Paris. It is doubtful, however, that President Chiang Kai-shek will follow this counsel.

Sees Good Economy for Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Col. Carl Hinkle, director of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, predicted today that Arkansas' economy will continue to grow at a steady but not spectacular rate in 1964.

Hinkle told the annual Management Conference of Arkansas Power & Light Co. that the state's outlook is linked to the possibility of a federal tax cut.

He forecast that personal income, production, farm income, and other economic indexes will show improvement over 1963, which was a good year in itself.

"The state's progress (in 1963) exceeded the moderate advance predicted for the nation by economists," Hinkle said. "There is every reason to expect that this progress will continue in 1964."

He said reduced military spending might result in loss of some jobs in military installations in Arkansas, but that any reductions may be offset by expansions in private plants, development of service businesses and the enlargement of tourist and recreational facilities.

Hinkle said Arkansas' personal income increased eight per cent during the first nine months of 1963 to a total of $1,351,000. This was double the increase between 1961 and 1962, he said. Per capita income in 1963 increased seven per cent to $1,592.

Richard, Liz Find Eddie a Bit Hostile

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton were here today for a possible solution of their hopes to marry, but angry words from Eddie Fisher made their chances seem remote.

A duel of epithets and a mob scene were added to filmdom's most famous—and lengthiest—love epic Wednesday.

Said Burton: Fisher says publicly he wants to ease the way for Miss Taylor's divorce from him, but his demands "are in the realm of the fantastic." The singer should make his demands public, said Burton, or "live up to his public image" and do what he calls "the gentlemanly thing."

Said Fisher: "I have just read Mr. Burton's pronouncement on the proper behavior of a gentleman, and I am convinced, now more than ever before, that he deserves an Oscar for sheer gall."

"To set the record straight, I have not nor will I ever demand any money from Elizabeth. On the other hand, I have no intention of surrendering her and Mr. Burton the property which I own."

"I have never advised one way or the other on Mr. Burton's treatment of his wife and I would thank him to refrain from commenting about my action concerning my wife."

"I hardly think that Mr. Burton is the one to lecture on morals, integrity, and honesty to me or to anyone else."

Miss Taylor and Burton landed their chartered DC3 at Los Angeles International Airport Wednesday night and descended into a seething, shouting throng of newsmen. Airport police tried to form a circle around the pair, but microphones and cameras were pushed at them from all directions.

"Get me out of here," Miss Taylor said fearfully. "Where is the way out?" said her fifth-husband-to-be.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — H. W. Robertson of Little Rock, director of field services for the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation, was named Progressive Farmer Magazine's "Man of the Year in Agriculture" Wednesday night.

He received the award at a banquet session at a meeting of farm cooperative leaders.

J. K. Stern of Washington, president of the American Institute of Cooperatives, warned the group that the future will more severely test the ability of the cooperative to withstand competition.

Regulation by U.S. Gets Some Fuel

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavy trading in stock markets with new price index highs this week is ammunition for the advocates of greater federal regulation of securities transactions.

They can point to a threat of a new speculation wave such as preceded the 1962 stock market crash by several months, as well as more urgent need to protect the public, presumably tempted by the price gains.

The House Commerce subcommittee is pushing a bill to extend Securities and Exchange Commission controls. President Johnson has endorsed new securities legislation in his budget message. Current operations call for $900,000 more in appropriations for the fiscal year starting July 1.

And SEC Chairman William L. Cary estimates that if the new powers are granted by Congress the SEC may need an additional $600,000 in the first year of its wider duties.

These include more supervision of rules under which the nation's stock exchanges operate and much greater policing of the over-the-counter market.

Public and congressional interest in the stock exchanges is also increased by the reports of rising corporate earnings now starting to pour in, and by the billion-dollar advance in total corporate dividend payments in 1963 over the previous year. They hit a record $16.2 billion.

Growing predictions for the immediate future of American business — and, in some instances, for many months to come, also leads many Americans to read the financial pages with more interest.

Arguments between the SEC and the stock exchanges cover a wide field, many pretty technical for the average stock owner or buyer.

They range from the SEC's dim view of floor traders — exchange members who buy and sell only for their own accounts and don't act as brokers for the public — to the qualifications of brokerage firm employees dealing with customers.

Exchange officers will present their side of the story to the SEC in a few weeks, and in time the SEC may devise new rules, or ask Congress for still more powers.

When the stock market is quiet and the public involved to a comparatively small extent the pressure for change is light. Recent heavy trading and the bidding up of many stocks to new high prices revives all the old fears: another speculation spree that could lead to a tumble that would weaken confidence in the economy all along the line, and the vulnerability of the uninformed stock buyer to the wiles of the minority that takes advantage of any loophole in regulations to fleece him.

Speculation fever also kindles rumors in Wall Street that the Federal Reserve Board might raise the margin rate again. Now 70 per cent of a purchase must be in cash. One of the board's weapons against too much speculation is to increase the cash requirement.

Things Most of Us Could Do Without, Newly Created College Folk Music Is One

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — A discard list of things most of us could do without:

All college graduates who create folk music by beating on a washboard, blowing into a jug, or playing on a cigar box fiddle. Anything in a supermarket wrapped in plastic. Airport terminals that have nothing to amuse the stranded traveler except pinball machines and 10-cent mechanical-pony rides.

Coiffures that make a woman look like her hair was standing on end from electrical shock. Any more television series based on medicine, the winning of the West, or anything that happened in the 1920s. Gasoline that has a secret ingredient that no other gasoline has.

Paperback novels that would corrupt the morals of Messalina. Beatnik poems which sound like the cries from padded cells. Congressional investigations which promise to reveal all, but merely wind up by confusing most.

Any science fiction story involving a journey to another planet has solved all the problems that trouble mixed-up earthlings.

All hostesses who think it is socially charming to serve their guests hero sandwiches and pizza pies instead of a real dinner.

Odd hobbyists, such as skin-divers, who want you to go spear an eel under water with their hands. Fellows you haven't heard of since childhood who send postcards saying, "Old pal, hope you can save us a couple of bunks in your house during the New Year World's Fair."

New apartment buildings with walls thinner than sliced salami. Parents who brag about the high IQs of their children — whom the neighbors regard as juvenile delinquents. Bartenders who always look for a tip but never buy a round on the house. Butterfly eyeglasses that make a girl look like a dragon fly from Mars.

Any science fiction story involving a journey to another planet has solved all the problems that trouble mixed-up earthlings.

Stereo Set Just a Gift, Johnson Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said the expensive stereo set delivered to his home in 1959 was simply a gift from old friend Robert G. Baker. Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield says this explanation should end the matter.

But Republicans, sensing an election year issue, are pressing this and other facets of the Senate Rules Committee's inquiry into the complicated business dealing of Baker, a former Johnson protegee who quit under fire last Oct. 7 as secretary to the late Sen. Democrats.

"The Baker family gave us a stereo set," Johnson said Thursday at a White House conference. "We had exchanged gifts before. He was an employee of the public and had no business pending before me and was asking for nothing and so far as I knew expected nothing in return any more than I did when I had presented him with gifts."

The President volunteered this explanation a day after the Senate committee released testimony by Don B. Reynolds, an associate of Baker in a local insurance firm, who said he sent the $542 stereo record player to Johnson's home at Baker's suggestion.

Reynolds said he paid for the set after selling Johnson — then the Senate Democratic leader — the first half of $200,000 in life insurance policies. The insurance man said he also agreed to buy $1,208 worth of advertising time on the Austin television station controlled by the Johnson family.

The President made no mention of the advertising purchase.

Asked for comment, Mansfield said "the President is to be commended for stepping right out and answering the allegations and for laying the cards on the table. The charge has been answered."

House Democratic leader Carl Albert said "the statement should stand on its own feet."

On the Republican side, Sen. GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen could not be reached for comment and House Republican leader Charles A. Halleck declined to discuss the matter.

But Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, who has called for a separate House investigation of Baker's business dealings, told newsmen that Johnson's remarks make it "more imperative than ever that the Senate Rules Committee call Bobby Baker, put him under oath and ask him whether he paid for this record player."

Gross said the President's statement "flies directly in the face of sworn testimony of Reynolds that he bought and paid for the stereo."

DOROTHY DIX

HE WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT COURTSHIP BY MAIL
By Helen Worden Erskine

Dear Helen: It's been said that a man is lucky if he finds one human being he can call friend or if he has somebody to love and be loved in return.

Two years ago while living briefly on the West Coast, I met a girl who struck me as the real thing; sincere, kind and easy on the eyes—the kind a man would be proud to introduce as his wife. We dated several times. She wore well. I found myself liking her more and more. Then business called me back to my home town.

We've been corresponding ever since and find that we do care for each other. On the strength of what her letters tell me I plan to return to the West Coast this spring and court the girl in dead earnest.

Being a gullible guy, doubt sometimes assails me, especially after I go to bed and have time to think. After all I've only actually seen this girl like I say, very briefly. Our knowledge of each other is gleaned chiefly from these letters flying back and forth (we sure keep the postman busy). Suppose when we do meet face to face once more, that she's not the dream girl I envisioned, suppose she finds me far from being the answer to a maiden's prayer? Suppose, instead of discovering somebody to love and to be loved in return, that we have overthrown our letters and sold each other short? What has been your experience with courtship by mail? —Hesitant

Dear Hesitant: Your pseudonym tempts me to say, "He who hesitates is lost." First impressions are usually the best. You met the girl and liked her. Why be a Doubting Thomas now?

The success of courtship by mail depends largely upon the intelligence of the principals. Your letter to me is well composed and states your problem clearly. The girl must have been equally sincere in her letters to you else you wouldn't be planning to resume your wooing in person this spring.

There is one danger in courtship by mail. You must come to know each other so well that there will be nothing more to discover when you finally meet. There won't be any surprises left. That's why so many marriages fail. With the chase over and all the questions answered, husband and wife lose interest.

Even when you've met the one person in the world for you it is well to maintain a certain amount of reserve. Don't tell all you know, especially if courtship by mail!

Dear Helen: Our 14-year-old daughter has a crush on a woman student teacher who is 22. This woman brings along half a dozen cans of beer every time she comes and sits and drinks and smokes with my husband. He kids around with her—of which I do not approve but he insists there is nothing wrong between them.

This woman also wrestles on the lawn with our daughter, takes her camping and acts in general as if she were boss of the outfit. She does help me around the house and is always willing to do a favor. Is she just trying to be nice or is she coming here for a reason? Should I tell her to go and not come back or what? I'm not the kind to tell people off unless I get real mad but I just don't like her. —Irrked Wife and Mother

Dear Irrked: Give this young Amazon her walking papers before she takes over your home. After all, you're the boss, or should be. Next time she appears with her beer cans, tell her you and the family have other plans for the evening. Say it with a smile but close the front door before she gets her foot in. If your husband or daughter protests, tell them enough is enough.

Dear Helen: What do you think of a person singing a hymn while people are dancing and drinking? —Troubled

Dear Troubled: I would think you and the hymn-singer both fanatics had your query to me not been sent on a flower-adorned greeting card bearing the quotation, "Each leaf each flower a message brings" from one of Rainer Maria Rilke's poems. This successful German writer was a truly great man. The very fact that you chose this card in a sense answers your question.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Baker Home Cost a Tidy $28,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is french wallpaper and lavender wall-to-wall carpeting in the $28,000 town house former Senate aide Robert G. Baker acquired and where Carole Tyler, his secretary and ex-beauty queen in Tennessee, resided.

And this decor, it was explained to the Senate Rules Committee today, is one reason no buyer has been found for the house since Baker was told early last month he could no longer have it.

The house is a unit in a co-operative housing development. Baker has been notified by the co-op that he must surrender his unit because neither he nor any of the immediate members of his family occupy it.

C. W. Taylor, president of the co-op, told the Senate committee that despite Baker's protest against having his membership canceled, agreement was reached last Dec. 10 that the unit would be put up for sale and the co-op would try to find a buyer.

But, Taylor said, the manager of the development has advised that all prospective buyers for the 4-bedroom, 2-bath house balk at its "rather elaborate and extravagant furnishings."

Taylor testified that the house had been occupied by Miss Tyler and Mary Alice Martin, a former secretary in the office of Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla. He said

The Arkansas sports Hall of Fame increased its roster to 30 names Thursday night with induction of five standouts in as many sports before a sellout crowd of 700.

Trapshooter Julius Petty of Stuttgart and football player Dan Estes of the University of Arkansas were honored posthumously baseball player George Kell, basketball coach Glen Rose and Olympic track champion Bill Carr were on hand for the sixth annual Hall of Fame banquet.

Joe Garagiola, a New York and St. Louis sportscaster, handled the job of master of ceremonies with the light touch which has made him so popular at the five previous Hall of Fame dinners.

Lack of space held the crowd down. Tickets, even at $7 each, were sold weeks in advance of the affair.

The high point of the evening was an exchange of jibes between Rose, basketball coach at the University of Arkansas, and George Cole assistant athletic director at the university.

The two have been friends for 40 years. Last year Rose introduced Cole when Cole was taken into the Hall of Fame.

Cole said Rose advised him in a letter written in 1929 to get out of coaching. He said he didn't answer the letter then but did this week because "Glen never forgets anything and I knew he'd bring it up tonight if I didn't."

Carr, now director of the Midtown International Center, urged the Hall of Fame audience to work for greater physical fitness of youth. "We've got to get our kids out of the automobiles and on their feet," he said.

Former state Sen. Lawrence Blackwell, a boyhood friend of Carr at Pine Bluff, said Carr always emphasized fitness. Carr won the 400-meter race in the 1932 Olympics in then world record time of 46.2. He also anchored a winning 1,600-meter relay team.

Kell, an automobile dealer, businessman and a native of Swift, said one of his main regrets about his 15-year major league career was that some sportswriters referred to him as a "cheese champion" when he won the 1949 American League batting title by .002 over Ted Williams.

He said he also regretted that he had not played in a World Series and noted "If you didn't play for the Yankees or Cleveland, you didn't get in the series while I was in baseball."

Kell was introduced by Lou Boudreau of Chicago, his manager when he played with the Boston Red Sox.

Garagiola reviewed accomplishments of Estes and Petty. Dan Estes Jr. accepted his father's plaque. Petty's brother, Paul Petty, took his.

Petty with eight national trapshooting titles before his death in an automobile accident in 1956.

Estes played on the unbeaten 1900 University of Arkansas football team and captained the 1911 team. He later coached at Arkansas State Teachers College and was a math professor there when he died in 1944.

Aging Spahn Signs With Milwaukee

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Some few years before Warren Spahn started pitching, so history tells us, the island of Manhattan was purchased from the Indians for about $24. Old Spahn now gets more than that every time he coils that limber, ageless left arm of his.

Wondrous Warren, nearing his 43rd birthday and a 350 game winner, signed with the Milwaukee Braves Thursday calling for what General Manager John McHale says is the highest salary ever paid a pitcher.

That would call for about $85,000. Working on the assumption that he pitches about as many games, and throws about as many pitches as he usually does, it comes out to about $28 a throw for baseball's oldest active performer.

"My job now," said the bald old fellow with the young outlook, "is to go out and earn the money."

The only surprise would be if he didn't.

The amazing lefty, like good wine, seems to improve with age.

age. His 23-7 record last season was the best of his career that started in 1942 with the old Boston Braves.

Spahn's signing was the top item on a day that offered plenty of fuel to the hot-stove league fires. Other major signings included Ron Perranoski of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Hector Lopez of the New York Yankees and Vada Pinson of the Cincinnati Reds.

In other action, Cincinnati shortstop Eddie Kasko was traded to the Houston Colts, Kansas City's Charles O. Finley asked for a meeting with the city fathers and the New York Mets announced that Casey Stengel is going to Mexico.

Perranoski, the Dodgers' relief ace in their drive to the NL and World Series championships, got a hike of about $15,000 to $36,000. The 26-year-old lefty had a 16-3 record and a sparkling 1.63 earned run average.

Lopez, a key figure in taking up the Yankee outfield slack when Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris were injured last season, signed for a reported $32,000. Pinson, who had 22 homers and 106 runs batted in last season, signed for a reported $35,000.

Kasko, the Reds' regular shortstop in their pennant winning year of 1961, was the second major infield acquisition by the Colts. They got veteran second baseman Nellie Fox from the Chicago White Sox earlier.

Kasko was obtained for cash, pitcher Wally Wolf and a player to be named later.

The Mets announced that Stengel will take the team to Mexico City for three exhibition games against the Reds of the Mexican League the first week in March.

And Finley, the A's owner who was ordered by the American League to sign a lease in Kansas City by Feb. 1, asked for and was granted a meeting with city officials Saturday.

Snow, Sleet, Fog, Rain Hits Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow, rain, sleet and fog hit wide areas across the nation today.

Storms broke out in many Midwest areas as arctic air clashed with warm moist winds from the Gulf, bringing snow, sleet and rain. Snow covered sections in the Northern Plains and snow mixed with sleet pelted areas from Minnesota into western Wisconsin.

Thundershowers rumbled across northeast Missouri, eastern Iowa and parts of Illinois. Heavy fog, with drizzle, was reported from southern Minnesota and northern Iowa eastward into lower Michigan.

Fog and drizzle sprayed the lower Mississippi Valley and the Gulf Coast region. Thundershowers also hit the Gulf Coast, with more than one inch of rain in Biloxi, Miss., in a six-hour period.

Rain and thundershowers were indicated during the day from east Texas and northern Florida northward into the southern Great Lakes region and Ohio Valley. The rain belt was expected to spread into the Middle Atlantic and south part of the North Atlantic states late today.

In the western half of the nation, snow flurried in the plateau region and the Rockies. More showers fell along the Pacific Coast from central California northward. Up to two feet of snow was reported in some mountain areas of Arizona.

Police accused Lloyd Dixon of Saugus of shoveling snow into the street and thus violating an ordinance against cluttering streets with "waste, rubbish or filth."

Judge M. Edward Viola dismissed the charge.

"I can't see snow as rubbish," he said. "People like it and you hear poems about it. Besides, God gave it to us and we'd have a hard time to prove he discarded it."
